

Informing

In reality every space cannot be accessible. When a space is having an event, informing people in advance about whether or not they can get in is another way to include the people of your community. An easy way to do this is displaying an accessible symbol if your space is PLD accessible. This is a symbol saying that you are PLD friendly, please contact for specifics. You can also put up an accessible symbol with a line through it if your space is completely inaccessible.

Informing

In reality every space cannot be accessible. When a space is having an event, informing people in advance about whether or not they can get in is another way to include the people of your community. An easy way to do this is displaying an accessible symbol if your space is PLD accessible. This is a symbol saying that you are PLD friendly, please contact for specifics. You can also put up an accessible symbol with a line through it if your space is completely inaccessible.

Why DIY?

I was fortunate to be part of a group of folk in the 90's that worked together to set up an infrastructure for bands to tour, put out records, and actually play their music for an audience! We lived in the south and wanted to play our music and share our art here and beyond. We did not fit in the mainstream at the time so we created our own spaces, houses, basements, even the outdoors. No places were off limits. With a generator and some speakers a show is created. Anywhere! It was a community we created ourselves for ourselves. DIY is about community. And without community, we are alone.

Why DIY?

I was fortunate to be part of a group of folk in the 90's that worked together to set up an infrastructure for bands to tour, put out records, and actually play their music for an audience! We lived in the south and wanted to play our music and share our art here and beyond. We did not fit in the mainstream at the time so we created our own spaces, houses, basements, even the outdoors. No places were off limits. With a generator and some speakers a show is created. Anywhere! It was a community we created ourselves for ourselves. DIY is about community. And without community, we are alone.

Why Think About Accessibility?

People living with Disabilities (PLD) make up the largest minority in the world. It's been reported that there were 57 million PLD in 2010 in the U.S. alone. As a community if you are not thinking about accessibility, you are excluding a huge group of people. Any group of individuals that understands the true meaning of the DIY ethic also understands without it, this minority could not live. Because most people I meet have no idea what accessibility means exactly, I decided to write this zine to give some tips about accessibility.

Why Think About Accessibility?

People living with Disabilities (PLD) make up the largest minority in the world. It's been reported that there were 57 million PLD in 2010 in the U.S. alone. As a community if you are not thinking about accessibility, you are excluding a huge group of people. Any group of individuals that understands the true meaning of the DIY ethic also understands without it, this minority could not live. Because most people I meet have no idea what accessibility means exactly, I decided to write this zine to give some tips about accessibility.

